50 arrested in Assam for pro-Pak posts

SUKRITA BARUAH
Guwahati, May 12

THE NUMBER OF those arrested by Assam Police as part of the state's crackdown on what it calls "Pakistan sympathisers" in the wake of the Pahalgaon attack has touched 50 — from students held after complaints by ABVP members to a 25-year-old traced and arrested from Telangana over a Facebook post.

The first of these arrests was made two days after the terror attack, on April 24, when AIUDF MLA Aminul Islam was picked up by police under section 152 of the BNS for statements in a political rally allegedly suggesting that the attack was a "conspiracy" by the Centre.

Section 152, which pertains to "acts endangering sovereignty, unity and integrity of India", has been invoked in many of the cases. Chief minister Himanta Biswa Sarma has also announced that the state has given district administrators the power to invoke the National Security Act against "repeat offenders". Uploading regular updates on X after every few arrests, Sarma has referred to the accused as "traitors defending Pakistan on Indian soil".

The 50 arrests have been made across 21 districts, and include one woman.

Five of the arrests were made after Operation Sindoor had commenced. The highest number of arrests, 7, is from the Cachar district in the Bengali-majority Barak Valley. The district SP, Numal Mahatta, said a social media monitoring cell in his office is tracking social media posts.

The state has given district administrators the power to invoke the National Security Act against repeat offenders

"While some of the posts have been detected by this cell, the Cyberdome in the Assam police headquarters is also alerting. There are also three cyber police outposts in Assam: one in Guwahati, one in Dibrugarh and one here in Cachar, which we are observing closely. Most of these cases have been proactively identified by police," he said.

Several social media users have also tagged Assam Police, flagging posts and comments on social media or highlighting screenshots. One such post was on Facebook by an individual named Ajibor Rahman. After police were tagged under a post by him on April 24, he was arrested by Barpeta police from Lakshimpur, Telangana.

Kohli quits Tests; Brand Kohli to keep scoring

WHETHER IT WAS his explosive centuries on the field or his love for chhole bhature off it, Kohli embodied a rare blend of street-smart cool and elite discipline, making him a natural fit for brands looking to connect with the youth. Recognising this, Puma signed Kohli in 2017 with a groundbreaking ₹110 crore, eight-year endorsement deal, one of the biggest ever for an Indian athlete. That partnership led to the launch of One8, a signature line of sneakers that not only expanded Puma's footprint in India but also reflected Kohli's personal style and performance-driven ethos.

In 2015, MRF Tyres brought Kohli on board with a ₹8 croreper-year deal, leveraging his on-field consistency and off-field credibility. His partnership with Myntra, alongside his wife and actor Anushka Sharma, further solidified his lifestyle appeal, while joint campaigns for home interiors brand LivSpace positioned the duo as a modern, aspirational power couple, effortlessly blending fame, relatability, and influence.

Experts say Kohli's dominance extends beyond the 22 yards. With over 40 endorsements, a lifestyle brand (one8), and a net worth exceeding ₹1,050 crore, he has long transitioned from just a cricketer to a cultural icon. Kohli, who will continue playing One Day internationals, took the No 1 spot in Honsa Research's Brand Endorser 2024 report, followed by MS Dhoni in second spot and Sachin Tendulkar in third.

There are many dimensions to him — family man, health and fitness freak, style icon — that is why his appeal is so broad and his sponsorship partners so varied. And that will not evaporate overnight. "Just as his game transitioned formats, his brand too is repositioning itself: from performance-led dominance to purpose-led resonance. This phase allows for a more curated public presence, driven by lifestyle, leadership, and legacy narratives," says Shashwat Vatsa, AVP-Brand, Olyv.

While Kohli charges over ₹10 crore per endorsement, sources say he is extremely selective. "He values quality over quantity," says a person familiar with his endorsement choices.

Crucially, he is highly visible. The cricketer enjoys a following of over 271 million on Instagram alone, and around 68 million on X. "You can say his Test retirement marks a pivot from pitch-driven visibility to platform-driven relevance," Yasin Hamidani, director, Media Care Brand Solutions.

Kohli is also the face of Royal Challengers Bengaluru, one of the most-followed franchises in the IPL. Consistent visibility across IPL, digital content, or brand campaigns ensures he will remain top-of-mind.

For Sonya V Kapoor, director at M5 Entertainment, Kohli's brand is now entering its legacy arc. "His brand will change from being an active player to someone who has taken a step back. Brands will still believe in the credibility that he brings to the table," she adds.

Athletes today are not confined to their performance arc alone, they are multi-platform entities, says Durvesh Yadav, founder and CEO, Rising Star Communication.

And that's what gives Brand Kohli its resilience.

US-China tariff truce scuppers early gains

"WE CONCLUDED THAT we have a shared interest," the paper quoted US treasury secretary Scott Bessent as saying in a news conference in Geneva, where US and Chinese officials met over the weekend.

At the trade fair in Canton — which is considered the largest in the world — the Chinese units approached Indian manufacturers among others to fulfil their US orders. In return, the Chinese were seeking commission. This offer was made as the Chinese wanted to retain their buyers.

"The Chinese had even offered to support some Indian manufacturers with inputs and technical help so that they could supply. Things were at the discussion stage with both the Chinese and the buyers in the US. Now the process is expected to slow down considerably," EPEC chairman Pankaj Chadha said.

The latest move by the US and China represents a significant thaw in trade tensions between the two economies and a challenge and opportunity for India, according to FIEO.

Now, the additional US tariff on India is 10% as compared to 30% on China. "As the tariff gap narrows, companies that had planned to shift production to places like Vietnam, India, or Mexico may return to China. The "China Plus One" strategy could quietly fade," founder of GTRI Ajay Srivastava said. "While low-investment assembly operations may linger in India for now, deeper manufacturing — the kind that builds real industrial ecosystems — may stall or even return to China. Investors are watching the US tilt, and many will hesitate to commit unless India can lock in a competitive advantage," he said.

The reduction in tariffs will likely result in a surge of US-China bilateral trade in high-value segments such as electronics, machinery, and chemicals, FIEO President SC Ralhan said.

"With reduced tariffs, Chinese exporters may regain their competitive edge, potentially at the expense of Indian suppliers. India's expected gains will be nullified once this tariff reduction attains permanence leading to increased trade between the two nations," AEPC secretary general Mithileshwar Thakur said.

"However, India can leverage this shift to strengthen exports in sectors that remain relatively insulated from US-China trade, such as pharmaceutical APIs, gems and jewellery, engineering goods, organic chemicals and IT-enabled services," Director General of FIEO Ajay Sahai said.

Price cut to severely hurt pharma exports

"THE PRICES OF generics are already depressed. If their prices further go down by up to 80%, no company would be able to supply to the US at that price," said Shashank Krishnakumar, senior research analyst at Emkay Global Financial Services. "A price cut of prescription drugs by 50% or more would hurt the US formulations market, more on the branded size due to immediate potential impact, while over the medium term it will also impact generics as it reduces the potential market size of new drugs," Reuters reported Shrikant Akolkar, an analyst at Nuvama Institutional

Equities, as saying. "Indian branded players like Sun Pharma, Biocon and Zydus Life may see an impact upon strict implementation," Akolkar said.

Of the 20 constituents of the Nifty Pharma index, 13 advanced — gaining up to 4.79% — while seven declined, falling as much as 3.15%. The top losers included Sun Pharma (down 3.15%), Ajanta Pharma (down 2.28%), and Glenmark Pharma (down 1.44%). On a year-to-date basis (2025), the pharma sector has continued to underperform. The Nifty Pharma index has declined 9.86%, while the Nifty has gained 5.41% during the same period.

In a social media post, the US president said that "prescription drugs and pharmaceuticals in the US were so much higher than they were in any other nation, sometimes being 5-10 times more expensive than the same drug, manufactured in the exact same laboratory or plant, by the same company."

Trump also said that he will be instituting a "most-favoured nation policy" whereby the US will pay the same price as the nation that pays the lowest price anywhere in the world."

In volume terms, the US pharma market is 90% branded generics and 10% innovative/patented products. "Generic drugs companies operate on a wafer-thin margin of 5-10%. Further reduction of prices would make the US market unviable for a large number of such Indian players," said a pharma analyst.

A pharma industry association head told FE on condition of anonymity that the impact of the executive order on the domestic drugmakers is likely to be limited because of the low share of generics segment (in value terms) in the overall pie.
